

From the Palestinian people, who bless this sacred mission of peace, I'm conveying you the message of the peace, the message of the Palestinian people who don't know fanaticism, and whose sons Muslims, Christians and Jews, live together in a spirit of cordiality, love and tolerance. This is Palestine whose people have entrusted me with that sacred message, the message of security, safety and peace.

To every man, woman and child in Israel I say: encourage your leadership to struggle for peace, let all endeavors be channeled towards building a huge edifice for peace, instead of strongholds and hideouts defended by destructive rockets, introduce to the entire world the image of the new man in this area, so that he might set an example to the man of our age, the man of peace everywhere.

Be the herabls to your sons, ~~th~~ tell them that past wars were the last of wars and the end of sorrows, tell them that we are in front of a new beginning to a new life - the life of love, prosperity, freedom and peace.

You bewailing mother, you widowed wife, you, the son who lost a brother or a father, you all victims of wars - fill the earth and space with recitals of peace, fill blossoms and hearts with the aspirations of peace, turn the song in a reality that blossoms and lives, make hope a code of conduct and struggle.

The will of God is part of the will of people.
